A Witty provided a summary of the current key policy drivers that CS were pursuing in terms of key funding to provide stability to employers, students and staff in colleges in Scotland. He drew members' attention to slide 8 that showed sector funding in cash and real terms over the past five years. He took members through the funding detail for session 2023.

8. Standing Items

a) Chair's Report

The Chair provided members with a summary of key activities, meetings, and events he had attended since the last meeting of the Board of Management, that included:

- GCRB meeting and risk management session. He added that the risk management session was facilitated by David Archibald, Henderson Loggie. He added that the event highlighted the disconnection of GCRB's Risk Register and Strategic Plan to those of the Glasgow colleges;
- GCRB Update – there had been no news from the Minister regarding the future of GCRB but subsequently it had been announced that the Chair had been reappointed for up to two years; and
- Green Gown Awards – he had sent a congratulatory email to the staff involved congratulating them on winning the award.

The Chair raised the situation related to the vote of no confidence from EIS/FELA and Unison members, in relation to an email sent to staff on 24 November 2023, by the Executive Committee of the Board of Management, and made a statement in relation to this.

I Patrick informed members that the view of the Executive Committee was that the tone of the email was respectful and followed on from a question raised by H McNeil at the last meeting of the Board of Management in relation to industrial action and the impact on student experience; members felt this was consistent with their role and were acting in the best interests of the College.

He further informed members that following the receipt of the vote of no confidence the Executive Committee held further discussions and the unanimous view of members was that the Committee had the right to send the email.

In addition, he commented that because the Board do not agree with the position of Unison and EIS/FELA does not mean they are anti trade union. He added that prior to sending the email to staff, as a courtesy, he had sent the text to J Lavery and C Breathnach. It was agreed that, although they did not think it should be sent, all parties had the best interest of the students at heart.

He noted that the Secretary to the Board of Management had acknowledged receipt of the vote of no confidence. He invited J Lavery and C Breathnach to respond to his statement. He added that due to the business required to be considered on the agenda and that further discussion were unlikely to change views, he would not take comments or questions on this matter.

J Lavery stated that the College is the most organised in terms of trade union activity, staff were not particularly embittered compared to other colleges. She noted that this communication had created an industrial relations breakdown. She added that she was not on campus when the email went out, but that staff contacted her as they were upset and felt patronised due to being reminded of the SIMD10 population; they work in this environment daily and staff members live in these areas. She informed that this may now affect any work undertaken on the good will of staff.

C Breathnach agreed that he had seen sight of the email prior to it being sent and had informed the Chair that the content would inflame the situation, which it has. He added that every member of staff he had spoken with has expressed anger, fury and disappointment; there have been no positive views put forward by staff. He noted that he did not intend to address the Chair's statement on the vote of no confidence. He registered his protest that trade union observers had not been provided with the opportunity to speak or address the situation.

He noted his intention to ask some questions regarding the process by which the Executive Committee of the Board of Management email was produced and his agreement on these being answered after the meeting, providing all Board members are included in the response:

Why did the Executive Committee of the Board of Management not hold a minuted meeting to discuss this consequential action, rather than an email discussion?

In the absence of minutes, can Board members be given sight of the email trail?

Did any members of the Executive Committee of the Board of Management raise concerns about or object to sending this email?

Why did the Executive Committee of the Board of Management not communicate its intention (and the content of the email) to Board members in advance of sending the email?

Can we have an assurance that, in future, decisions / discussions by the Executive Committee of the Board of Management will happen at minuted meetings and that Board members be informed and consulted on decisions.

The Chair of the Board of Management agreed that the Secretary to the Board would respond to the questions from C Breathnach, as noted above.

Unison balloted their members to extend industrial action and this had been extended for a further six months. EIS/FELA had also balloting members to extend industrial action and the result of this would be known in January 2024;
