Board of Management Meeting of 12 June 2024

Alternative Sources of Information for Members

Report by Principal

1. Introduction

The purpose of this paper is to advise members of the Board of Management of alternative sources of information to inform their decision-making processes. It is also intended to provide members with access to the sources of external assurance as required by the Scottish Government Audit and Assurance Committee Handbook.

It is intended to provide members with strategies to obtain alternative perspectives on policy proposals which are made by the College's management.

Following on from the announcement made by xxx regarding the

2. Statutory Duties

Members of the College Board of Management have a number of statutory duties which are defined in the Post-16 Education (Scotland) Act 2013. These are also refined further by policy guidance issued, from time-to-time, within the provisions of this legislation by the Scottish Funding Council (SFC). An electronic copy of the legislation is available on <http://www.legislation.gov.uk/asp/2013/12/contents>

Members will recall that their primary duty is to act with due diligence to ensure that the interests of the College are protected. They also have statutory obligations to ensure that the College operates within wider statutory frameworks (such as those which apply to the regulation of Employment and Health and Safety).

Members of the Board are not, within the terms of the legislation, personally liable for the actions of the College providing that they have acted reasonably, responsibly, appropriately and in 'good faith'.

Members should take full cognisance of the duties described to them by the Glasgow Colleges' Regional Board (GCRB) Financial Memorandum and should also be aware of the Scottish Funding Council's Financial Memorandum which applies to single college regions.

The exercise of these duties might, on occasion, require Board members to challenge or to test the advice being given to them by College staff.

This paper seeks to outline the possible alternative sources of information which might enable members to discharge effectively this role.

Members should also note that the College is a Scottish Registered Charity under the provisions of the Charities and Trustees Investment (Scotland) Act 2005 (the College's Charity Regulation Number is SCO21207). Board members are, as a consequence, Trustees of the College as a charity. This legislation sets out both their individual and collective duties in that respect. An electronic version of this legislation can be accessed at https://www.legislation.gov.uk/asp/2005/10/pdfs/asp_20050010_en.pdf

Members should also make themselves familiar with the Code of Good Governance for Scotland's Colleges which is available at Code-of-Good-Governance-for-Scotlands-Colleges

3. Advice from the College's Senior Management

The work of the College Board of Management and Standing Committees are conducted within a framework laid down by its Constitution (which is set out in the 1992 legislation and the Post-16 Education (Scotland) Act 2013) and by its Standing Orders.

As a general rule the College will prepare a paper for consideration against each item on the agenda of the Board or its Standing Committees.

Members should be aware that in all cases these documents and Board Reports will include an explicit notice which indicates potential sources of additional or further information. Use should be made of this facility if appropriate or if necessary.

Furthermore, members should also note that the authorship of papers is routinely indicated at the foot of all reports prepared for Board discussions. Typically, they will appear as:

DS/AMcK
Glasgow Kelvin College
June 2021

The initials on the right will always designate the typist (AMcK being Annette McKenna). The author's initials (DS being Derek Smeall) will be those on the left. In the case of multiple-authorship a series of initials may occur (e.g. DS/RA/AMcK – this will indicate that the report has been jointly prepared by DS –Derek Smeall and RA – Robin Ashton).

4. Internal Sources of information

Members should also note that there is a comprehensive range of internal documentation which represents a substantial information resource. This includes:

- the College Strategic Plan;
- the Board and College Register of Interests;
- the Board Constitution and its Standing Orders;

- the Scheme of Delegation;
- the Remits of Board Standing Committees and current meeting schedule; and
- the College current Programme Guide and its website <https://www.glasgowkelvin.ac.uk/>

Board Agenda, Minutes and Papers are available in the Board member portal and on the College website. As are the papers for Standing Committees.

Furthermore, the College organises a Development Programme for its members during each academic year. Members can request the College to include particular topics for these programmes. New members are offered an Induction Programme (attendance at which is open to all Board members).

The annual priorities of these programmes are normally determined by the Board in discussion with the Secretary to the Board.

5. Advice from External Agencies

Members may also wish to seek additional advice from External Agencies.

They will recall that the College engages with specialist agencies for advisory services.

These include:

i) The Secretary to the Board

The Secretary to the Board is Linda Ellison.

The Secretary to the Board is independent of college management and is appointed by the Board of Management. The primary role discharged by the Secretary to the Board is that of the provision of advice and guidance in respect of constitutional or matters related to the Governance.

The Secretary to the Board also plays an important role in the Board 'whistle blowing' procedures (or, more formally, the Public Interest Disclosure Policy).

She also assists the College in processes which appoint new members including the Principal. Though this is now subject to oversight by the Glasgow Colleges' Regional Board and follows a procedure which has been approved by that regional strategic body. In addition, she supports Board Members when conducting other business which might lead to possible conflicts of interest for members (such roles in in other bodies which have a direct impact on the work of the College) or the College's management (such as the appointment of Internal Auditors).

Ms Ellison is an important 'resource' for members. She should be able to sign-post members to a range of alternative or original sources of information in respect of the College's governance.

To avoid possibly unnecessary (and unpredictable) charges being levied, members who might wish to seek information or guidance from these should, in the first instance, discuss the matter they wish to raise with the Chair of the Board (or the Principal, as the College Chief Officer).

If the issues which they wish to consider relate to the conduct of either the Principal or the Chair advice should, in these circumstances, first be sought from Linda Ellison, the independent Secretary to the Board.

6. The Role of the College's Chief Officer

The Principal is the College's Chief Officer. He is responsible, in turn, to the Chief Officer of GCRB (Martin Boyle) who is, in turn, responsible to the Chief Executive (Karen Watt) of the SFC (who acts as the Sector's Accountable Officer).

The Principal as the College's Chief Officer is ultimately responsible, through the GCRB Chief Officer and the SFC's Chief Executive, to the Scottish Parliament for the use made by it of funds provided for the provision of further education in its catchment area.

He also has a duty to the Board to indicate when it (or individual members) may be proposing to make decisions which may be potentially ultra vires (that is beyond the Board's powers or authority).

Members should, at all times, take cognisance of advice provided by the Principal in his role as the College's Chief Officer. They should also bear in mind their statutory obligations to act in 'good faith' when discharging their role as members of the Board. To ignore advice given by the Principal (acting as the College's Chief Officer) might, on some occasions, be considered to be inappropriate and a breach the statutory requirement for them to act in 'good faith' (thereby rendering an individual Board member potentially personally liable for the implications of any such decision).

The Principal (as the College's Chief Officer) also has a duty to report all potentially reckless or otherwise inappropriate decisions made by the Board or its members to his Accountable Officer (Martin Boyle, Executive Director of GCRB).

7. Risk and Assurance

Members should be aware that having access to advice which is independent of the College is an important aspect of the governance framework. It mitigates the risk that the Board will make ultra-vires decisions. Advice from external sources is additionally an important source of assurance available to members in discharging their duties.

8. Recommendations

Members of the Board of Management are recommended to note the contents of this report and the alternative sources of external advice which are available to assist them discharge their duties and to request the Principal to up-date this paper for the information of members in June / August 2024 or before should circumstances require it.
